Lectio Treasures in Our Hands, in our Hearts, for our Lives

Did you ever try to clean out or declutter a drawer or closet and then come upon an old photo album or a stray snapshot? If you have, you know your great neatness project is now at a standstill. Your hands begin to hold this photo or album carefully, perhaps even reverently. You sit. You remember. You gaze upon this moment of your life, these life moments of ones you love. The present moment stops. It is swallowed, enveloped in this, which has touched your heart.

These are "Lectio" moments, and in the case of finding an old photo album, they can turn into "Lectio" hours, when we ponder what has gone before, what it has meant to us, how our life was shaped by this, that is held in our hands.

During the next three years, we are to hold in our hearts that Miracle we have held in our hands: the Holy Eucharist - pondering Its meaning in our lives, for the Life of the World.

These "Lectio" moments might be reflections on Scripture or reflections on our own memories, experiences, or the memories, writings, reflections, of the Church through the ages. They might focus on the sacramental elements of the Eucharist or the Eucharist as meal, the Eucharist as sacrifice.

We have, in a sense, a 2000-year-old Family Album, a Lectio of Eucharistic Treasures. Before we open that Eucharistic Album, let's take a moment to view its Title page.

My Family Album might be titled – The Johnston's. Or, I could add other Family branches like – The Barbieri's, Klein's, Almeida's, etc. The Title Page for our Eucharistic Album lists its many names and gives us plenty of food for reflection.

How many of the names to the right did you know? Which name touched you by its meaning, its beauty? S. Mary Ann

The Catechism of the Catholic Church begins its teaching on each of the Sacraments by asking the Question – What is this Sacrament Called? It seems a simple question, but the responses reveal the richness of each sacrament. Each response evokes a certain aspect of that sacrament.

What is the Holy Eucharist called?

-Eucharist – Thanksgiving evokes Jewish blessings of God's works: creation, redemption, sanctification

-The Lord's Supper
-Breaking of the Bread
-The Eucharistic Assembly
-Memorial of the Passion and Resurrection
-The Holy Sacrifice
-Holy and Divine Liturgy
-The Sacred Mysteries
-The Most Blessed Sacrament
-Holy Communion
-Bread of Angels
-Bread from Heaven
-Medicine of Immortality
-Viaticum
-Holy Mass
